

St.Peter's Nursery Newsletter January 2025

Welcome back after the break, I hope you all had a lovely Christmas with your families. I am really looking forward getting to know the children and to be involved in their learning and development.

The children were all raring to go on Monday morning and came in confidently, despite the change of teacher, so well done nursery!

This term we will continue to work on the routines that the children are familiar with, to promote independence. To support this, please keep encouraging your child to do their own morning jobs, particularly hanging up their coat in the corridor whilst you wait in the classroom.

Our first text that we have shared is, 'One Snowy Night' by Nick Butterworth. Based on this the children have begun to create shelters for the animals, to keep them warm. They have also been particularly interested in the polar animals trapped in the ice and some children worked together to free them.

If you have any questions or would like to discuss your child's development, feel free to get in touch.

I will send any further information out via Seesaw, including the week's nursery rhyme and text. Please look out for a message from me, so that you can contact me easily on there.

Looking forward to a fantastic term ahead!
